

ON Call Andrew Simpson, MD

Dr. Andrew Simpson is a fellowship trained orthopedic spine surgeon. He completed medical school at the Yale School of Medicine, his internship at Massachusetts General Hospital and his residency at Harvard Orthopaedics Combined Residency Program. Dr. Simpson also completed a spine fellowship at Emory University School of Medicine and Emory Spine Center in Atlanta, Georgia.

Dr. Simpson specializes in the treatment of cervical, thoracic and lumbar spine conditions. His goal is to make sure patients are appropriately treated for their specific spine condition in the least invasive but most effective way possible. Dr. Simpson is passionate about spine research and has presented research throughout the world at national and international spine meetings. Dr. Simpson's practice is located on the Texas Health Resources Dallas campus.

Dr. Simpson's Education:

Fellowship 2013-2014 Emory Spine Fellowship

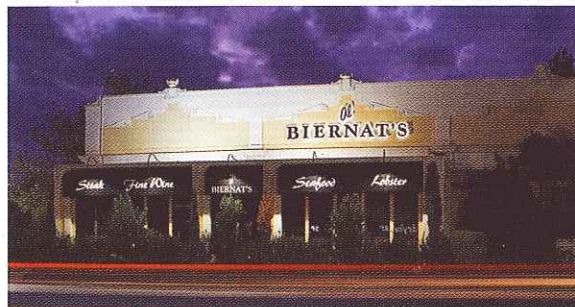

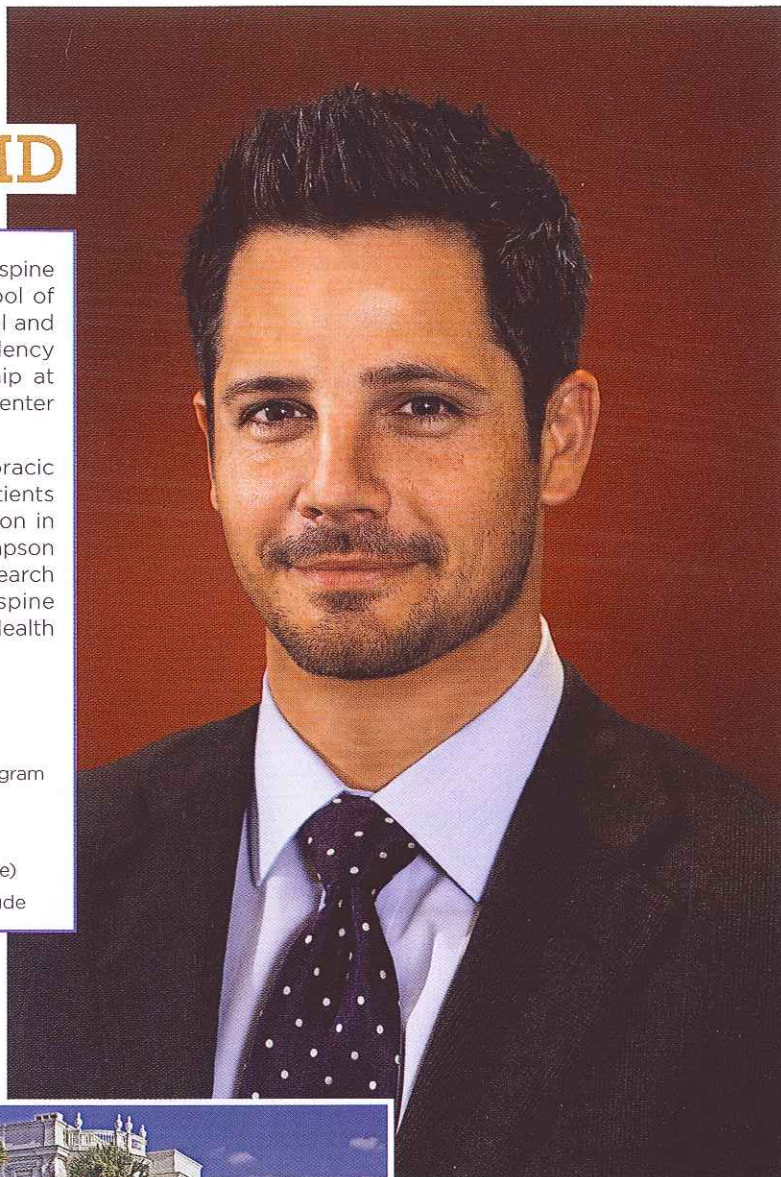

Residency 2009-2013 Harvard Combined Orthopaedic Residency Program

Internship 2008-2009 Massachusetts General Hospital

Medical School 2003-2008 Yale School of Medicine

Graduate School 2006-2007 Yale (M.H.S., Master of Health Science)

Undergraduate 2003-2008 University of Florida, Summa Cum Laude

What is your favorite local restaurant?

My favorite Dallas restaurant is Al Biernat's and the best dish there is the New York strip.

AL BIERNAT'S

4217 Oak Lawn Ave,
Dallas, 75219
albiernats.com

What are your favorite vacation spots?

I love to visit the Caribbean and Charleston, SC.

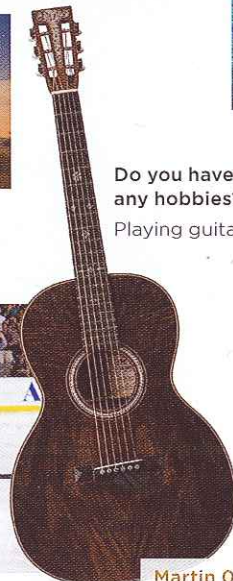

What's on your bucket list? Visiting Africa

What is a gadget you can't live without?

My wine opener

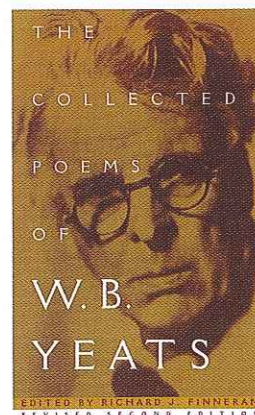

Le Creuset Twist Style Corkscrew
$24.95
macys.com

Do you have any hobbies? Playing guitar

What do you like to do in your time off? Dallas Stars games!

Favorite author?

W.B. Yeats

The Collected Poems of W.B. Yeats
$17.39
amazon.com

Martin 000S14 Acoustic Guitar
$9,599, guitarcenter.com